This morning's tech discovery?

Thanks to a chat with #ChatGPT I realized the Yoast #SEO plugin generates an xml sitemap and I didn't need to make one manually.

And apparently that duplicative sitemap could have been messing with Google Search Console....

Will be interesting to see if I get any kind of domain bump from rearranging the furniture today.

I'd settle for having new blog posts appear in GSC more quickly, but perhaps beggars can't be choosers....

On the bright side, I turned on llms.txt to help my content be discovered by AI answer engines. An explainer: yoast.com/features/llm...

Yes, I am creating original content, but the purpose behind that is to become known for helping people be smarter than their smartphones.

A means to an end.
